

A leadership interview activity

This is what you do...

1. Pair off with a partner for the activity.
2. Spend a few minutes independently planning a twenty minute interview you will lead on and around leadership with your partner.

Think carefully about the issues you will explore in depth on the skills, experience and ideas your partner has about how best to lead.
3. When you are both ready, run the two interviews, making notes to clarify key points, and share what is most significant with your interviewee.
4. Once all interviews are done, we can get back together as a whole group and capture the key learning points from the activity.
