There are three mandatory units in each qualification. The first unit, 'Understanding the context of coaching and mentoring in a strategic business environment' aims to enable learners to critically review the role and contribution of coaching and mentoring at a senior level. The second unit, 'Reviewing own ability as a management coach or mentor' will give learners the tools and techniques to review and improve their own practise, and understand how the client's organisational culture and structure affects the coaching and mentoring relationship.

For the Certificate, the third unit requires learners to demonstrate their ability to plan, deliver and review at least 20 hours of coaching and mentoring in their workplace. For the Diploma, this unit is extended to 100 hours of coaching and mentoring, and there is an added focus on assessing their work against best practice standards and benchmarks.
